

THE ARIZONA REPUBLICAN.

ISSUED EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR
BY THE REPUBLICAN PUBLISHING COMPANY.

Entered at the postoffice at Phoenix, Arizona, as mail matter of the second class.

The REPUBLICAN has its own SPECIAL WIRE connecting its office direct with San Francisco and Chicago, and through these cities with all the great news centers of the world. Besides the Associated Press report it receives more special dispatches every day than any paper west of St. Louis, outside of San Francisco.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:
Daily, per week, by carrier ..... $ .25
Daily, per month, by mail ..... 1.00
Daily, per quarter, by mail ..... 2.50
Daily, per six months, by mail ..... 5.00
Daily, per year, by mail ..... 10.00
Weekly, per month, by mail ..... .25
Weekly, per quarter, by mail ..... .75
Weekly, per six months, by mail ..... 1.50
Weekly, per year, by mail ..... 3.00

SILVER, COPPER AND LEAD.
Silver was quoted yesterday at $1.05 1/2 per ounce; copper at $18.75 per 100 pounds; and lead at $3.75 per 100 pounds.

A change from dust to mud will be acceptable.

A busy term of the District Court is at hand.

A steam laundry would find a clear field and a large business in Phoenix.

Duo politics and start to work both for your own profit and the country's advancement.

In no city in the West are there better chances for investment than in Phoenix.

Before many years the Salt River Valley will step to the front in the production of oranges.

This seems to have been a year when the Republicans east of the Rocky mountains were "not in it."

Those suits for libel which were coming against THE REPUBLICAN just after the election seem to have died a bornin'.

YUMA county Republicans scored a splendid victory last Tuesday, electing their entire ticket with but two exceptions.

THERE has been a hard fight fought, and the Republican party has developed in the strife a spirit and strength that augur well for future years.

THERE should be a meeting of the Harrison club next Wednesday night. Now is the time to proceed with the permanent organization and keep up a good fighting force. It is organization that wins.

Persons interested in the tariff should call at THE REPUBLICAN office and get a copy of the Defender, a tariff paper issued by the Protective Tariff League. Every number contains much valuable information.

RAIN, and at the right time, is a blessing appreciated in its fullness by all tillers of the soil. The downpour last night was welcome, as it has put the fields of the valley in good condition for the spring plowing and has served in place of an irrigation for sprouting the grain already planted.

It is to be hoped that the next Grand Jury will make a careful and deliberative investigation and report upon the various public offices and institutions of the county. The last few Grand Juries have been only superficial in their inspection of the books and work of the county officials and have hardly fulfilled the requirements of the law, the intent of which is that they shall be as guardians of the people from official wrong.

The people of Nebraska seem to have waked up to the value of the beet-sugar industry. The success of the experiment in the manufacture of beet sugar at Grand Island has caused other places to endeavor to secure the establishment of similar factories. The business promises to grow into great proportions, and of course it will be stimulated by the McKinley bill. It is a business which might well be undertaken in Arizona.

The Board of Supervisors were tendered the resignation of Clerk J. L. B. Alexander yesterday, and unanimously refused to accept the same, the members expressing full confidence in Mr. Alexander and satisfaction with his work. The offering of the resignation was caused by the fact that during the election Mr. Alexander has been prominent in his opposition to the reelection of C. R. Hakes as a member of the Board. He did so simply in the interest of good government, and now that the fight is won, desires to retire from an office in which he thought he might be personally objectionable to at least one of the members of the Board. Mr. Alexander is a careful and correct official and, being himself a heavy taxpayer, has shown in many ways, especially during the last year, that he has the interests of the County at heart.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

WHAT A MORMON IS AND IS NOT.

A Mormon is not a free citizen. He has covenanted, secretly, in some temple or endowment house, to obey the ruling priesthood in all things. This is known, not only from the declarations of apostates, but of the foremost Mormon leaders. No Mormon can divest himself of that which makes him a Mormon, namely, his priesthood, except by ceasing to be a Mormon. That proposition is as incontestable as the relations of figures. By virtue of his priesthood only is he a Mormon; that is to say, a conspirator against civilization, a recreant to all authority which is not Mormon authority. Other sectarians may lose upon occasion the sectary in the citizen. The Mormon never. On the contrary with him the citizen, in all his relations, is lost in the Mormon.

There can be no division amongst true Mormons. Mormons are a unit, or they are nothing. Absolute unity is the product of the Mormon machine, as artificial stone is of the hydraulic machine. If Mormonism fails to produce unity, it fails altogether. Two hundred thousand souls, says George Q. Cannon, united as one, and having no will but God's will, as interpreted by the President of the Church, are a power to make the earth tremble. Not united as one, and not thus obedient or moved by the President's will, they are naught! And in this the apostate is right. This is why the system is intolerable in a free country. It swallows the individual as completely as does an army. It is an army in organization, except that an army does not necessarily swallow the soldier's soul as well as his body, while Mormonism does. Mormonism is absolute unity of the members and absolute obedience to the Head, or it is nothing. The Mormon Church, if it is a church at all in the ordinary sense of the term, is a great deal more than any other church. What other church, for example, makes the segregation of its converts, and their gathering together in one place, the first great object of its efforts after conversion? Why does it not permit converts to found churches wherever they happen to be, as mere churches do?

Because in that case converts could not be moulded and welded and hammered into one, be enrolled in a Mormon political party and in a Mormon army, as well as in a church, and be used to found a Mormon State, which, like its Arab prototype, has naught to offer to other States or to other peoples but conversion, tribute or death.

And yet they carry it that they are free men, loyal citizens of the Republic. They play at politics as if there was no strings on them, their argument being in brief to deny everything and curse their enemies, and claim that their nefarious schemes of conquest and dominion are shields from all molestation because they call themselves a church and their State-founding a religion.

There is no open, manly fight in them. They are always at some trick intended to deceive. One must go back twenty years to get at their real spirit and aims. In those days of isolation they did not lack courage—with their mouths. Now even their mouths have gone back on them, they frame nothing but lies and evasions, and they are every day in the market purporting to resign their spiritual inheritance and calling for the pitiful prizes of politics.

Persons interested in the tariff should call at THE REPUBLICAN office and get a copy of the Defender, a tariff paper issued by the Protective Tariff League. Every number contains much valuable information.

RAIN, and at the right time, is a blessing appreciated in its fullness by all tillers of the soil. The downpour last night was welcome, as it has put the fields of the valley in good condition for the spring plowing and has served in place of an irrigation for sprouting the grain already planted.

It is to be hoped that the next Grand Jury will make a careful and deliberative investigation and report upon the various public offices and institutions of the county. The last few Grand Juries have been only superficial in their inspection of the books and work of the county officials and have hardly fulfilled the requirements of the law, the intent of which is that they shall be as guardians of the people from official wrong.

The people of Nebraska seem to have waked up to the value of the beet-sugar industry. The success of the experiment in the manufacture of beet sugar at Grand Island has caused other places to endeavor to secure the establishment of similar factories. The business promises to grow into great proportions, and of course it will be stimulated by the McKinley bill. It is a business which might well be undertaken in Arizona.

The Board of Supervisors were tendered the resignation of Clerk J. L. B. Alexander yesterday, and unanimously refused to accept the same, the members expressing full confidence in Mr. Alexander and satisfaction with his work. The offering of the resignation was caused by the fact that during the election Mr. Alexander has been prominent in his opposition to the reelection of C. R. Hakes as a member of the Board. He did so simply in the interest of good government, and now that the fight is won, desires to retire from an office in which he thought he might be personally objectionable to at least one of the members of the Board. Mr. Alexander is a careful and correct official and, being himself a heavy taxpayer, has shown in many ways, especially during the last year, that he has the interests of the County at heart.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

THE stand the farmers have taken in the East in organizing political parties is one that is to be regretted, in the interest of free American institutions. No particular sect or class, or guild of society or labor can combine in politics without introducing a selfish and narrow motive. Instead of a government by and for the people they seek to make it a government directed by themselves, for their own special benefit. Such an idea is against pure Republicanism as it is against justice. The laws of the land should be made by the people as a whole, not by representatives of the farmers, nor of blacksmiths, nor of any particular trade or occupation. The platforms of all parties that seek supremacy should be based upon ideas of general equity, on broad principles of political economy and not upon a desire to individually benefit the members of any special organization.

WANTS.

The quickest returns for the least money are to be obtained from the REPUBLICAN'S WANT COLUMNS. Situations Wanted, Help Wanted, For Rent, For Sale, To Let, To Exchange, One Cent a word each insertion, or by the month at Five Cents per line per day.

WANTED—A GOOD SPAN OF WORK HORSES, weighing 1200 pounds each, and about six years old; also a buggy horse. The advertiser will be in Phoenix about the 10th of the month. Address F. A. GUILLEY, Tucson, Ariz.

BOARD AND ROOM IN PRIVATE FAMILY: B. home cooking. Monroe street, opposite high school. MRS. WILLIAMS. 163

FOR RENT: THE STORE ROOM NOW OCCUPIED BY M. KALLISHER & CO. will be for rent on November 1. Enquire of J. H. THALHEIMER, Central Hotel. 151-4

TO LEASE, FOR ONE OR TWO YEARS—A desirable residence, suitable for a large family. Apply on the premises, Washington street, third door east of the Lemon Hotel.

FOR SALE—TWO BEDROOM SETS, ALSO A complete parlor set. Apply corner of Center and Jackson streets. 170-176

FOR SALE—TWO GRINDING PANS, ONE with Milling Pan, and one with Engine. All in first-class condition, and will be sold cheap. Inquire at this OFFICE.

MISCELLANEOUS.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL, CORNER CENTER and Jefferson streets. Only house employing white help throughout. GEO. H. N. LUBER, proprietor.

GO TO THE FASHION BARBER SHOP FOR shaving, hair cutting, shampooing, hair dressing, hair coloring. Ladies work done at the shop residence. Prices to suit the times. Opposite the Opera House. FRANK SULLIVAN, proprietor.

TO LOAN—ON FIRST-CLASS SECURITY, for a long term, the sum of $2000. JOHN KING, Phoenix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

ARIZONA CHAPTER NO. 1, R. A. M., State convention on the second Monday of each month. R. C. Cramer, H. P. C. H. Knapp, Secretary.

ARIZONA LODGE NO. 2, F. AND A. M., State meetings on the first Tuesday of each month. Dayton A. Reed, W. M., C. H. Knapp, Secretary.

ARIZONA DEGREE LODGE NO. 3, D. O. F., Meets second and fourth Thursday evening of each month. Matt Nettie Carrier, N. G., C. S. South, Secretary.

ENDYMION LODGE NO. 4, O. U. W. M., Meets second and fourth Wednesday of each month. F. M. Czarowski, Commander, G. H. Rothrock, Recorder.

FLORAL ENCAMPMENT NO. 2, I. O. O. F., Meets second and fourth Tuesday evening of each month. George A. Mintz, C. P., O. S. Scott, Seiler.

G. A. R. JOHN W. OWEN POST NO. 82, Meets first and third Wednesdays of each month at Masonic Hall. W. F. Woods, Commander, C. H. Knapp, Adjutant.

K. OF P. PHOENIX LODGE NO. 2, MEETS on the first and third Fridays of each month in Pythian Hall. W. A. McGinnis, C. P., C. C. Kibbey, K. of R.

CLAYTON ARIZONA NO. 1, PATRIARCHS Militant, I. O. O. F., Meets third Tuesday of each month. John Gray, Commandant, N. E. Morford, Clerk.

O. U. W. PHOENIX LODGE NO. 5, Regular meeting every Wednesday evening in Pythian Hall. D. P. Conroy, W. M., G. H. Rothrock, Recorder.

PHOENIX LODGE NO. 2, I. O. O. F., MEETS every Saturday evening in R. of F. Hall. O. S. Scott, N. G., John Gray, Secretary.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

ABRAM MUMPHRIES, COUNSELLOR AT LAW Office: Room 4, Third Floor Building. References: Laclede Bank, St. Louis; H. C. Power, President First National Bank, St. Louis; M. F. H. Marshall, Cashier Woodstock Iron Company, Anniston, Ala.

BAKER & CAMPBELL, ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Office: Over National Bank.

DR. SCOTT HELM, PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office and residence Maricopa street, East side of Plaza, Phoenix, Arizona.

DR. H. JESSUP, DENTIST, ALL WORK guaranteed at reasonable prices. Rooms 11 and 12 Porter Building.

DR. J. HARDY, DENTIST, All Work Guaranteed. Young Hotel, opposite Commercial Hotel, Phoenix, Ariz.

J. R. WOODWARD, L. H. CHAMBERS, WOODWARD & CHAMBERS, ATTORNEYS at law. Rooms 7 and 9, Third Floor Building, Phoenix, Arizona.

RAILROADS.

Maricopa & Phoenix R. R.

NEW TIME TABLE

(IN EFFECT JUNE 15, 1890.)

LEAVE. ARRIVE.

Phoenix. Tempe. Maricopa. Phoenix. Tempe. Maricopa.

Phoenix. Tempe. Maricopa. Phoenix. Tempe. Mar